Horticulture Talks To Draw Crowds To State Armory

Society Will Open 94th Eastern Section Meeting Wednesday With Livingston

The 94th meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, Eastern Section, will start Wednesday morning, January 26 at the New York State Armory, Kingston, according to Donald F. Green, Chazy, president in 1948.

This year's program, designed by local people to answer the questions of local fruit growers, promises to be one of the best on record. Green said. Already, the western New York meeting has exceeded all records in attendance and quality. We expect the eastern meeting to be even better if the weather holds its present even temper. Detailed copies of the program can be secured at local Farm Bureau offices and from officers of the society.

WEDNESDAY MORNING session will be on fungicides and will be under leadership of Robert J. Livingston, Germantown. Prof. James M. Hamilton of Geneva and D. H. Palmer of Poughkeepsie will discuss the new fungicides and their effect on quality and quantity of the crop. Dr. Henry W. Thurston, Jr., State College, Pa., will talk on his observations on the newer fungicides in the eastern United States and the mid-west. This past year, Donald Green of Chazy and A. B. Burrell of Ithaca will show movies on helicopter dusting and results from application of concentrated fungicides. W. D. Mills of Ithaca will review scab and fungicide control program.

MARKETING—Wednesday afternoon, Wednesday afternoon will be given over to a thorough discussion on how the middle west collects taxes for promotion on apples and cherries, plans of the N. Y. & N. E. Apple Institute and the panel discussion of growers and specialists on selling the crop. This panel will discuss What Is Wrong With Apple Consumption. The quality of apples being offered at retail will be shown by apples picked up in local markets. What the growers can do to improve this quality will be discussed by investigators from Ithaca and several growers will discuss what they are doing to improve the quality of apples.

WEDNESDAY EVENING will be given over to another panel on improving the fruit industry in the Hudson Valley and will bring up many questions to be discussed.

$400,000 Is Lost In Independence

Half of Business Block Burns Near Summer White House

Independence, Mo., Jan. 20 (AP)—A pre-dawn fire in near zero weather raged through a half block of business buildings in President Truman's hometown this inauguration day, causing damage approaching $400,000.

The downtown fire was only eight blocks from the summer White House. Fire Chief D. A. Kincaid said damage may run as high as $400,000. It was one of the worst fires in the more than 100 years of Independence's history.

No one was reported injured but 30 persons were evacuated from a residential building as the fire spread to the accompaniment of exploding small arms ammunition in a hardware store.

Immediate Fund of 35 Million Granted, 65 Million to Be Given During Year; Use for Agriculture, Industry

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Full American diplomatic recognition of Israel appears certain sometime next week as a follow-up to a $100,000,000 loan to the new Jewish nation.

The American government took a big step toward this objective yesterday by granting the loan to the provisional Israeli government—$35,000,000 immediately and $65,000,000 more during the year.

President Truman last May 14—a few minutes after the new state was proclaimed—recognized it as a "de facto" government, meaning that the United States regards it as in fact the ruling authority there. Last Oct. 24 he announced he had ordered quick handling of loan applications from Israel. Full recognition is called "de jure."

The loan approval makes American money available to develop Israel's agriculture and industry.

Also, coming six days before elections are held in the Jewish state, it reflects United States confidence in Israel's future.

Government officials told a reporter that barring an election upset the State Department will extend full diplomatic recognition to Israel shortly after the January 25 elections.

Only a totally unexpected victory by the Communists or extreme Left Wing Socialists could cause the State Department to stop or delay its plans to broaden the limited de facto recognition.

The present Conservative Socialist Party headed by David Ben-Gurion is heavily favored to win a majority of the 120 seats in the Israeli Parliament. Government officials said his chances for victory undoubtedly have increased since the loan was announced.

The $35,000,000 is to be used immediately to buy tractors, plows and other equipment needed to step up the output of Israeli farms. This increased food yield is required to feed the growing number of immigrants.

The remaining $65,000,000 will be given the Israelis after they submit specific projects calling for American financing. This portion of the credit is available until December 31. The whole amount carries a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate; it is repayable in 15 years.

The American credits to Israel, coming in the midst of peace negotiations between Jews and Arabs, made a change in British policy toward Israel more likely but not certain.

Government officials shied away from predicting Britain's eventual course, except to repeat Undersecretary Lovett's statement that both Britain and the United States are trying to achieve the same objective in the Middle East—economic and social stability, plus security.

Lovett spiked reports of an impending "deal" whereby the British would recognize Israel in return for American participation in a British plan to defend the Middle East.

But reports of another possible "deal" dropped up almost immediately after Lovett's denial. Rumors circulated that Britain would agree to recognize Israel if the United States in turn would recognize the kingdom of Trans-Jordan, the British sponsored Arab nation which is now urging other Arab states to make peace with the Jews.

Nehru Calls Dutch Action Challenge to Awakened Asia

Nanking, Jan. 20 (AP)—The government tonight offered to halt hostilities and talk peace in China's civil war but left to the Communists the next move.

In North China a separate peace agreement suitable to both sides reportedly has been reached but not put into effect. This agreement would cover only that part of North China still in government hands.

The Kuomintang (government) party's powerful central political council today approved the cabinet's resolution calling for a cease fire order and the beginning of peace negotiations.

New Serum Made To Check Mumps; Epidemic on Wane

Health Authorities Are Preparing to Fight Influenza Now, in Europe

Mumps, which has recently been made a reportable disease, may soon be among the communicable diseases which can be prevented in an exposed individual and in reducing the severity of complications for adults once the disease arises. A new serum has recently been put out by two commercial houses which appears to have a proven value, according to health authorities.

Mumps, while being a relatively mild disease in childhood does have some more serious complications which are more frequent in adults.

Locally there has been an epidemic of mumps during the past few weeks but as the epidemic appears now to be on the wane. Just how many cases have occurred in Ulster county is not known since the disease was made reportable only last month. The epidemic was centered in the Kingston and northern section of the county and appears now to be "on the way out."

Influenza, a disease which swept the country a few years ago with serious results, has again been reported in Europe and while no true type of influenza has been reported in this country, health authorities are watching the situation very closely.

Gravy Causes Illness

During December, the monthly report of the Ulster County Health Department states that there was an outbreak of gastroenteritis among about 75 per cent of 60 guests who ate at a social dinner. In this case the cause was traced to gravy which had been inadequately heated before serving, following prior refrigeration. The outbreak was of a mild nature.

One case of undulant fever was also reported in December in a man who drank raw milk from his own herd. Tests made on his herd showed the presence of Bangs disease in the cattle which is the causative agent of undulant fever in man. This given proof of the need of using only pasteurized milk to insure safety from such infections as undulant fever.

Rabies Reported

The December monthly report of the Board calls attention to eight animals diagnosed as rabid in Ulster county since July 2, 1948. The incidence of rabies in animals seems to be located in the Greenfield Park and Ulster Heights area of the township of Wawarsing. The last rabid animal was found a half mile from where the first rabid animal was found in 1948 and only a quarter of a mile from where the last rabid fox was found. Localization program of the U.C.R.A.C. and the Ulster County Health Department and the New York Conservation Department.

Dr. George W. Weber, medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital report 18 new cases of tuberculosis were found out of 391 examined at the out-patient clinics. This high yield is undoubtedly due to one fact that during the month many people were examined who had been found to have pulmonary pathology at the time of the mass survey in the city of Kingston. During December the tuberculosis hospital was utilized to 95 per cent of its capacity. Six patients were admitted, three of them being re-admissions. Six patients were discharged, three of them being thoracoplasty cases.

Dr. J. Spottswood Taylor, director of the Ulster-Tumor Clinic, reports the ninth as vice president of the position of radiologist.

Bedside Cases Increase

Miss E. C. Schultes, acting director of the Division of Public Health Nursing, reports the transfer in December of Miss Mivim.

Rondout Bridge Lights To Be Improved by State

Local Bus Stoned At Newburgh Game

Second Incident Occurs Within Few Months To Mar Meeting

Once again the lack of good sportsmanship of a few Newburgh sport fans was displayed at a Newburgh Free Academy-Kingston high school encounter.

Following the basketball game Tuesday night at Newburgh, one of the new Pine Hill-Kingston buses which had taken spectators to the game was stoned and the bus damaged. At the office of the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corporation today it was said that the bus was in charge of Earl Van Keuren, and while no serious damage had been done, there were defacing marks on the exterior of the bus where stones struck the bus.

This is the second time within a few months that this lack of sportsmanship has been displayed by the Hilly City rooters. On Thanksgiving day when Kingston high school played Newburgh in the annual holiday football encounter, one of the buses which took students to Newburgh was put out of commission when someone put sand in the gas tank while the bus was parked on the school property.

Amalgamated Says Bonwit Employees Sign

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers, asked by the C.I.O. to unionize department stores, announced last night it had "overwhelmingly" signed up the employees of Bonwit Teller, Inc.

The union said it will ask to be certified as bargaining agent and seek a contract with the firm, which has stores in New York, Boston and White Plains, N. Y.

The announcement was the first major result claimed in Amalgamated's million-dollar organizing drive.

The A.C.W., which hitherto concentrated on men's garment makers, was asked by C.I.O. President Philip Murray to enter the field after the C.I.O. Retail Workers Union lost several left wing locals which now are independent.

Amalgamated officials said, however, they will concentrate first on non-union stores. The field is largely unorganized.

Few Tickets Left

Announcement was made Wednesday that a few more tickets were available for the annual dinner of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to be held Saturday night at the Barn. State Comptroller Moore will be the principal speaker. Executive Secretary Al Kurdt today stated that several of these tickets for the Saturday night dinner already had been reserved.

Eastwind Deaths May Total 11; 20 Men Are Injured

Coast Guard Postpones Hearing Until Friday; Some of Injuries Are Serious

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A coast guard investigation board proving the collision of the cutter Eastwind and an oil tanker off the New Jersey coast adjourned today until tomorrow after a brief organizational meeting.

Eleven coast guardsmen are feared dead and 20 were injured. Five swept the Eastwind after the collision in thick fog early yesterday about 100 miles southeast of New York harbor.

The coast guard board announced the hearing was postponed because of inability of witnesses to appear today.

The injured, some in serious condition, were brought here late yesterday aboard rescue vessels, and taken to Marine Hospital on Staten Island.

The 10,000-ton tanker Gulfstream, which plowed into the cutter in fog and darkness off the New Jersey coast early yesterday, limped into New York harbor last night.

The Eastwind, a hole in its starboard side and its superstructure twisted and charred from a seven-hour fire, is being towed here by another coast guard cutter, the Sassaparilla.

Rear Admiral Ed H. Smith, commander of the third naval district, heads the special five-man coast guard board of inquiry set up to investigate the sea tragedy.

Exhausted and smoke-blackened survivors from the Eastwind told on their arrival here last night how the ships collided while most of the 157 men aboard slept.

Then the big tanker backed off, its bow plates caved in. Flames burst from the crippled 3,000-ton cutter as it drifted away into the pre-dawn murk.

Five in the forward part of the tanker were quickly brought under control. None of the 42-man crew of the tanker, owned by the Gulf Oil Corporation, was reported hurt.

B.P.W. Approves Plans for Use of Lumen Lamps; Added Cost Slight

Improvement of lighting on the Rondout creek bridge was approved by the Board of Public Works in regular session yesterday afternoon.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., explained in a letter to the board that the State Department of Public Works plans to replace the present 100 candle-power incandescent lamps on the bridge with a type known as 16,000 Lumen mercury vapor lamps.

This will improve the quality and quantity of the light and eliminate faults, the letter said. Fixtures, supports and wiring are owned by the state and the cost of lamp replacement, glassware renewal and operating cost of the lights are borne jointly by the city and the town of Esopus.

The utility company said plans call for replacement of 13,100 candle-power lamps with four of the 16,000 Lumen mercury vapor lamps at an estimated annual increase in cost of $67.38, and also recommended the replacement of four 250-candlepower lamps at the bridge entrance with four 400-candlepower lamps at an estimated increased annual cost of $28.44.

The letter asked for approval of the operating cost of the new lights which was granted through adoption of a resolution.

Members of the board agreed that the lighting on the bridge has long been in need of improvement.

Letter Is Filed

A letter from the Municipal Civil Service Commission asking the board's consideration in the arrangement of medical examination for workmen, was filed for further consideration.

The letter signed by Russell E. Howard, secretary of the commission, explained that at a recent meeting of the commission it was decided that "whereas several departments have medical examiners to examine eligibles before appointment," and "whereas eligibility tests for laborers of the Board of

Says World Agrees War Not Needed

Chief Executive's Talk Is Brief Following Inaugural Ceremony at Capital

Asks Cooperation

Truman Welcomes All Who Would Help Relieve Misery

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Harry S. Truman was sworn in for his first full term as President of the United States at 12:29 p. m., E.S.T.

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Here, in brief, are the four "major courses of action" for the coming years which President Truman outlined in his inaugural address today.

1. "Unflinching support" to the United Nations.
2. Continued programs for world economic recovery.
3. Support—including military aid—to strengthen "freedom-loving nations against aggression."
4. "A bold new program" to help the world's needy areas with American scientific and industrial skill.

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman today pledged a global crusade for "peace, plenty and freedom" in a blistering inaugural speech denouncing the "false philosophy" of Communism and war.

The Chief Executive keyed his address to the quickening struggle between the Democratic west and the Communist east.

While he cautioned that America's material resources are limited, Mr. Truman promised to draw deeply on the "inexhaustible" resources of this country's technical know-how to help free peoples everywhere.

Communism "holds that war is inevitable," Mr. Truman told thousands in the capitol plaza immediately after taking his oath of office for a four-year term. And even now, it is endangering attempts to keep world peace.

But he declared that as a result of American efforts "hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us that we need not have war."

"These efforts must now be expanded, he said, to include a gigantic 'bold new program' of foreign economic development, aimed at wiping out misery, hunger and despair in backward areas all over the world.

Mr. Truman listed that as one of "four major courses of action" to be stressed in coming years.

He also called for a security pact with western Europe, which he hopes to send to the Senate soon, and he promised to strengthen non-Communist countries cooperating with American security plans by providing them U.S. military advice and equipment.

His proposed new program for improving conditions in the areas which might offer a breeding place for Communism amounted to a call for a new front in the cold war. In this endeavor the cooperation of Allied nations would be "warmly welcomed," the President said.

Conditions Approach Misery

"More than half the people of the world are living in conditions approaching misery," Mr. Truman declared.

To combat those conditions he proposed enlisting American capital, investments and industrial skills—plus any assistance which might come from other sources.

"Our aim," he said, "should be to help the free peoples of the world, through their own efforts, to produce more food, more clothing, more materials for housing, and more mechanical power to lighten their burdens. We invite other countries to pool their technological resources in this undertaking."

The "Truman plan" for world betterment constituted the only new point in the President's four main courses of foreign policy

Dewey Says Farmers Face Increasingly Acute Problem

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—Governor Dewey says the dairy farmer may be caught between rising prices and declining returns.

"The problem of the farmer in keeping his books balanced is going to be an increasingly acute one," Dewey said last night.

He spoke at the annual dinner of the New York State Agricultural Society.

Dewey said the dairyman's income was declining because of a drop in fluid milk consumption while the prices he pays for goods "are stable, and some are increasing."

The farmer had to buy "at retail and sell at wholesale," he said. He described the dairyman's price situation as "extremely depressing."

"I urge you," Dewey told mem-

Unusual Variety Vaudeville Show

An unusual variety program, featuring such headliners as Athos, circus star doing his sensational one-finger balancing stunts, Buster West, comic of the recent Gertrude Nelsen stage hit "Follow the Girls" and Roy Smock, "Radio's Wizard of the Strings," will feature the professional five-act vaudeville show at Walter Reade's Broadway Theatre on Friday and Saturday, January 21 and 22.

Athos, who was the talk of last year's Madison Square Garden circus when he balanced himself upside down on one finger atop a glass ball, will repeat that and other difficult equilibrium tricks, on the Broadway Theatre stage. He will pose on one hand, and at times on one finger only, atop bottles stacked two and three high, on slender sticks, sabers, and all kinds of unsteady objects.

One matinee and two evening performances will be presented daily, in addition to the regular screen show, "The Creeper" with June Vincent.

Buster West, who for two decades has been convulsing audiences all over the world in shows, revues, night clubs and motion pictures, will appear with Lucille Page for his comedy. A veteran of show business, West has appeared in such stage hits as "White Horse Inn," "Greenwich Village Follies," "Earl Carroll's Vanities," "Radio City Revels" and with Al Jolson in "Hold Your Hats." With Miss Nelsen in the long-running musical "Follow the Girls," he appeared as "Dinky Riley," one of the two sailor companions of the star. He has also toured extensively in Europe, South America, and Australia, and was with U.S.O. during the war.

Smock, a talented musician on 14 instruments, is another veteran entertainer who has played in movies, stage shows, revues and night clubs, and done extensive recording work. One of the high-spots of his career came in 1938 when he played a command performance at the coronation celebration for the present King George of England.

Also on the bill will be Stanley Kane, who plays popular records and then pantomimes the singer, in a manner similar to McCarthy and Farrell, current popular young television stars. A highlight of the act, entitled "Strictly Off the Record," will be a black-face take-off of Al Jolson.

A comedy act will complete the five-act bill.

Potato Flour Can Be Made for Less Money

Philadelphia, Jan. 20 (AP)—Potato flour to help avert starvation in Europe can be made by a new process at a cost of less than two cents a pound and even cheaper for livestock consumption.

Dr. Roderick K. Eskew of the Eastern Regional Research Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture told the Philadelphia section of the American Chemical Society today the new process was developed in response to the request of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

If bleaching and sorting steps are omitted, livestock feed can be produced for slightly more than a cent a pound, Dr. Eskew said.

The potato product, he said, is slightly cream colored but compares favorably with the flour now being produced commercially from cooked, unpeeled potatoes.

For human consumption, the potatoes first are washed and sorted, he explained. Then they are ground, bleached with a little sulfur dioxide and finally dried in steam heated tubes.

High TB Rate

Singapore (UP)—X-rays taken in Singapore's new Anti-Tuberculosis Clinic have disclosed signs of TB in 55 per cent of the cases—"a much higher proportion than we expected," said clinic officials. This result was observed in the first 181 cases examined. The clinic plans to carry out mass X-raying of local school children.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—Four Republican legislators from Manhattan today joined a Democratic-initiated drive to provide state aid for child care centers.

The Republicans jointly introduced legislation to permit any county, city, town or village to furnish day care centers for the children of working mothers.

Sponsors of the bill are Senator Mac Neil Mitchell, Assemblywoman Maude E. Ten Eyck and Assemblymen John R. Brook and Archibald Douglas, Jr.

Last week, Senator Louis Bennett and Assemblyman Julius Gans, Bronx Democrats, introduced a measure to authorize the Board of Regents to use school buildings for the care of children whose mothers are employed.

The bill would allow the Regents to arrange for nursery schools as well as child development centers. The cost of teachers' services would be shared equally by the state and municipalities.

The Republican measure did not indicate the size or form of state financial assistance required.

In a joint statement, however, the Republican law makers declared:

"It has become evident during the post-war period that a continuation and expansion of the day-care program is mandatory and that state aid is required to maintain this service."

During the war, the State Youth Commission aided localities in financing child care centers. For the past year, however, the commission has declined to make funds available on the ground they should be used solely for prevention of juvenile delinquency.

In addition to care for the children of working mothers, the proposal is designed to aid parents unable to look after their children because of service in the armed forces and other reasons.

The measure would set up a state commission to assist local agencies in the development of the program. It also would provide that a "reasonable charge, consistent with family income, be imposed by the local districts furnishing such day care."

Another bill introduced by Republicans would regulate the practice of fitting and adjusting artificial limbs and braces.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Samuel Rabia, both of Queens, would require licensing of appliance dealers before they could practice.

Applicants for a license would have to complete a course in appliance fitting in a registered school.

In a statement, the sponsors asserted that wounded veterans "have been at the mercy of incompetent or improperly trained appliance fitters—who may have prescribed artificial limbs which resulted in further suffering."

A proposal was submitted in the assembly yesterday designed to provide closer surveillance of sex offenders.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph A. Martin, Bronx Democrat, would require persons convicted of sex offenses to report address changes to police and would require their examination by a psychiatrist.

If a psychiatrist found an offender to be mentally sound he would have to certify to that effect.

If the offender were found to be mentally ill, treatment would be prescribed and administered, and if he were found to be ill to the extent that he was considered dangerous, he would be committed to an institution.

Martin said his bill would enable police to maintain strict supervision over offenders and aid authorities in solving crimes in which "repeaters" were involved.

THE "MIDDLE CLASS" IS DEFINED

Since November 2 quite a lot of people have said that they voted for Mr. Truman because they knew just where he stood on every issue. The President's forthrightness didn't end with his victory, either. For now he has told the people where he stands on the subject of the middle class.

We're obliged for the information, because it has always been hard to recognize the dividing lines in our classless society. We've heard a lot about the common man from Henry Wallace. But just who is he? How many of him are there? Where do they live and work? How much money do they make? We've never found out.

We've had the same difficulty with the same questions about the middle class. This term, unlike the term common man, is not largely one man's property. What it means depends on who uses it.

We've heard about "the great middle class" when the speaker obviously meant that it was the slightly conservative backbone of the nation and of the private enterprise system. We've heard others use the term when they were clearly thinking of the middle class as a mass of statistical anonymity.

Mr. Truman hasn't answered all the questions about this segment of our society. But at least he has put it in its economic place. For where would the middle class belong except in the middle income tax bracket? Thanks to the President, we now know that the middle bracket includes those who make from $6000 to $25,000 or $30,000 a year.

We would have guessed that the middle class incomes began at a slightly lower figure. But that is because we are still inclined to think in terms of the not-too-distant past when $6000 was quite a respectable annual income. In those days, you had quite a bit of that six thousand left even after the butcher, the grocer and the Collector of Internal Revenue had got through with you. Why, you could even buy a pretty good house for $6000.

But now we know better. We also know, however incredible it may seem, that in this happy income bracket there is still some skimmable cream which the tax man will go to work on, if Mr. Truman has his way.

Since we know this much, we may assume that below the $6000 figure lies Henry Wallace's realm of the common man. Perhaps the $5900-a-year man can lay claim to membership in the petite bourgeoisie, but the rest seem definitely proletarian.

Whether the heights above $25,000 or $30,000 are occupied chiefly by "gluttons of special privilege" is another matter. At least they seem to be down to financial skim milk, for the proposed tax boost passes them by. And the President declined to second the suggestion, once made by Mr. Roosevelt, that all net incomes be limited to $25,000 a year.

Mr. Truman almost had to pass that one, if only out of gratitude. For on the same day that he was putting the right class in the right bracket, the Senate was voting him a $75,000-a-year raise—with two-thirds of it tax exempt!

GOLD RUBLE

Some credence is being given in this country to persistent rumors that Russia is planning a limited revision of its currency on the basis of gold. It is not generally supposed, however, that this would result in a ruble which could be freely accepted in international trade at a standard value. The belief is that the Russians probably would aim only at a gold ruble for trade within the Soviet bloc of nations, a paper ruble theoretically redeemable in gold.

This would give Russia and the satellites a currency which they could claim to be equivalent in stability to the American dollar. The propaganda value is obvious. If the ruble could be made to circulate only behind the Iron Curtain, no export of gold would be required to support it. The Moscow government has a way of maintaining favorable trade balances with the satellites. A reorganization of the Russian currency on this basis would be of little meaning to the

'These Days'
By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE CAPTAIN EATS ALONE

The President of the United States is alone responsible for the conduct of the government of the United States. Neither the King of England nor his prime minister has such responsibility. Even in Soviet Russia, a politbureau of 14 men divides both the responsibility and the authority. The British cabinet stands or falls with the prime minister, but in this country the cabinet members are really only secretaries, sometimes even less important than heads of independent agencies. No member of the cabinet could remain in office an hour longer than the President wishes; in fact, it has been known to happen that the President accepted a resignation not even offered.

The law places upon the American President a detail of work not expected of any official in any other country. He is required to sign with his own hand a vast number of documents. He is required to present a budget for which he and no one else is responsible. The director of the Bureau of the Budget, who may compose that document, is an advisory official whose judgment the President may accept or reject. At any rate, as our country is organized, the director does not go before the people for their approval. Of the executive officers, only the President does that.

It is in many respects a killing job. Every President, even such a one as Harding, has to work long hours. He is separated by his work from his family and personal friends. Mr. Roosevelt attempted to keep his family close to him, but with little real success. His closest friends, even those who were in the White House, were not permitted to produce criticism of the President, who is regarded as belonging to the whole people and not to a clique. Theodore Roosevelt attempted to surround himself with a coterie of brilliant individuals who were soon looked upon as a "kitchen cabinet." Franklin D. Roosevelt's smart young men, who entertained him with the swiftness of their conversation, brought down on him considerable criticism. Wilson had his Colonel House; Roosevelt his Harry Hopkins; Harding had his Ohio gang; Truman started with the Missouri Gang.

But by and large, the President is alone, dependent upon his staff. The very business of seeing those who need or want to be seen is a man-killing business. Every visitor to Washington digs up some congressman or senator or public official to take the tourist into the White House to shake hands with the President, if not to consume 15 minutes of his time. Heavy contributors to campaign funds, local politicians, officials from abroad bearing credentials, members of his own administration—they all use time. And time does fly.

There is little time or energy left for casual reading or for normal recreation. A President gets most of his information from prepared reports—often by the same individuals whose work should be critically scrutinized. And there is hardly enough time to read all the reports. Mr. Roosevelt solved that problem by giving himself anonymous secretaries who did not long remain anonymous and some of whom definitely misled him in matters of high policy. Mr. Truman's secretariat is not composed of such complex personalities. By all accounts, the most able man in the Truman secretariat is John Steelman, whose experience in the affairs of the country has been unusually broad.

The country expects of the President an inordinate amount of speech-making. Most of it is unnecessary and could be delegated to cabinet officers; but that would offend pressure groups or, worse, the President's person to promote their causes. Recent Presidents have publicly employed speech-writers, men capable of phrasing either the President's ideas or their own in a satisfactory manner. Mr. Truman's speech-writer is Clark Clifford. Mr. Roosevelt was not much at all in prompt speeches; both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Truman are better extemporaneous speakers. Truman is a reader. Yet the President is usually cautioned against and frightened by the off-the-cuff speech. So he reads.

The presidency is a good job for the man who likes to read. For the extrovert it is an unbelievable chore. Yet no one could be elected to it who is not by nature gregarious.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HEARING AIDS

As we pass young children on the street wearing glasses, we think nothing of it; yet a child wearing glasses was a rare sight not many years ago.

School teachers were among the first to report to parents that their youngster's apparent backwardness at school was due to poor eyesight. The child was unable to read what was on the blackboard, got discouraged, and lost interest. By "aiding" the eyesight by properly tested and fitted glasses, the youngster's school progress was in line with that of other children.

That the hearing of children is affected by infection of childhood and their hearing temporarily affected by the common cold, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, is now known to teachers. They report each case to the parents in schools that do not have physical examinations conducted by physicians and nurses.

While we may feel sorry for the youngster with poor eyesight, there is much more reason for feeling sorry for the youngster with poor hearing. The youngster with poor hearing not only gets behind in his school work, but also does not take part in the group exercises in the classroom nor in the group play in the school yard. Because he does not take part, share games and responsibilities with his schoolmates, he withdraws within himself. Such is often the reason for playing hooky, general disobedience, juvenile delinquency and it darkens the child's entire future.

The thought, then, is that as a matter of fact "aiding" the child to hear better early is more important to his happiness and general health than aiding the child to see better. To give the hard-of-hearing child a chance to hear better and so be a part of his surroundings, his hearing should be tested by an audiometer. If hearing cannot be helped by an ear specialist, he should be fitted with the type of hearing aid that will meet his particular needs, just as the youngster wears glasses to aid his vision. We would soon grow used to seeing youngsters wearing hearing aids and realize that the child's whole life has been changed.

West, as it would not be a gold currency in a real sense, internationally. It would be a step, though a short one, toward a more sound economic structure. Whether or not it would be judged successful from the Russian viewpoint probably would depend on whether the new ruble had any quieting effect on the murmuring of satellite desires for greater trade with the West.

Anyhow, southern California has learned what snowflakes look like.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—A lot of Washington's high society is pretty sore about this inaugural. They're not being invited to the big parties. This includes quite a few prominent Senators. Congressmen and lobbyists who take a lot of pride in being seen at all the right social functions. This time they have been left completely out of the cold.

This omission wasn't because they were Republicans—a lot of Democrats were left out, too. It was because Mr. Truman laid down the law that most of the invitations were to be reserved for the folks back home—the little people who came a long way to see the inaugural.

That's why the rental clothes in Washington are swamped right now. You can't rent a dress suit for love or money. All the folks from out of town are in town renting tuxedos and tails to see the man they voted for made President of the United States. It doesn't make any difference that Washington socialites make snide remarks about the "unwashed Trumanites." Harry Truman is standing pat and having the folks back home to see him sworn in.

Herein lies Harry Truman's greatest strength. A very large segment of the American people love Truman because they consider him one of their own. They admire and loved Franklin Roosevelt because he was their champion. But they did not consider him one of their own.

Truman, however, is different. His presence in the White House is a symbol of the fact that any little haberdasher or farmer or county politician can sit in the White House—in fact, is already there.

That is Harry Truman's greatest strength, and also his greatest obligation. For he cannot let those people down.

Truman's Two Assets:
As Harry Truman takes the oath of office today, he has two new big assets which will help him mightily in carrying out his obligation to the people who elected him:

1. He has a new Congress which is vigorously, on the whole, enthusiastically, with him.
2. He has a new confidence in himself.

No longer is he a political accident. No longer does he owe his place to a President who smiled upon him. He has been elected on his own and he intends to operate on his own.

These two assets are important. Also important is a third fact which is not an asset, but a liability—namely, the general level of mediocrity among the men around Truman.

Actually Truman's program is not new. The State of the Union message he sent to Congress was a good message, but it repeated in different words the same important proposals which Truman had sent to the 80th Congress.

The new 81st Congress will probably pass the bulk of this program. But after it is passed, side that the difficult, vital task of carrying it out. And getting good men to run the government, in any administration, is a lot harder than it sounds.

Mediocre Men
One reason you can't get them is lack of inspiration. Good men don't work necessarily for money, but because they love their work, because they are achieving goals they believe in. They don't like to work under mediocre men; and some of the Cabinet members in the Truman official family, plus some of the advisers around him just do not inspire enthusiasm.

There is no use mentioning names at this time. If I did, Mr. Truman probably would hit the ceiling and become more determined than ever to keep them on. For he simply hates to have anyone tell him who should or should not be in his Cabinet. Sometimes Truman himself has referred to

Today in Washington

Four Years Ago Only Brief Ceremony Was Held on South Portico of White House

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 20 — Four years ago on this day there were no parades but only a brief ceremony on the south portico of the White House as a loving son tenderly lifted Franklin D. Roosevelt to the microphone so he could make his inaugural address.

The war in Europe had not yet ended. The Battle of the Bulge had cost the lives of many American and allied soldiers. The fact that a President was being inaugurated for the fourth consecutive term seemed only as unprecedented as the war itself—nothing was normal.

Today there is no such sense of sadness. There is anxiety in the world but also a calm confidence that it can be removed by the patience and persistence of the informed people—for they want no more war.

The inauguration of a President can be a Roman holiday. The temptation is to emphasize the political triumph of candidate or party. This is but a one-day phase. It passes, along with the other oddities of American democracy, and might as well be added to the celebrations of other peoples as they crown their kings or tote their rulers.

The difference perhaps is that there is nothing permanent about the tenure of office here. It is temporary. Four years is a brief time within which a President can try to work out a program of reform and welfare. It is punctuated, moreover, in mid-term by a congressional election when a coordinate branch of the government goes before the people.

What does a man who is inaugurated President of the United States think about in this climactic moment of his career? What thoughts run through his mind as the people cheer him and the eyes of the nation are focused on him? Does he think of himself as just an extraordinary man—or a lucky man? Might he be soliloquizing on the fact that out of nearly 150,000,000 persons he has been selected for this honor in these fateful times? Does he think of himself as better fitted than the opponent he has defeated? Does he think of himself as better than anyone else his party might have selected? In short, does a president as he stands there on the east front of the capitol and takes the oath allow the ego within him to suffuse his mind or does he conquer that ego by thoughts of humbleness and service to the people who have honored him?

The words that come forth on these occasions are usually words of humbleness. Presidents deliver their inaugural addresses with solemnity and dignity. They know the people expect them to be modest and almost deferential in their attitude, though it will be recalled that, in his first inaugural, Franklin Roosevelt delivered a defiant outburst with phrases reminiscent of his political campaign. He struck the first note of the class warfare which ensued with greater and greater intensity in the years that followed.

For here is the real difference between crowning a king and inaugurating a president. A king can do no wrong—the concept associated with his reign is best expressed by the phrase "the divine right of kings." A president, however, can be wrong and what is even more important—the humble citizen can tell him so. It is this which we celebrate today. It is this which we rededicate when we applaud with all our hearts the inauguration of Harry S. Truman and wish him good luck, good health and a most successful administration.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt recently published in the Ladies Home Journal a leading suggestion that a lynch-law be invoked against a specified citizen for no specified offense but apparently for the sole reason that she disliked him. The physical attack which she proposed would be a violent crime. Having introduced the idea in the form of a tacit incitation, Mrs. Roosevelt entered a perfunctory disclaimer. But she did not condemn the wrongness of the act. She rejected the idea only for the same reason that deters a robber who, having surveyed a project, decides against it. The law might punish the criminals.

Many citizens thought her conduct unseemly in one who had gloried in the artificial use of first lady for 12 years and in an improved status of dowager for four years more. I thought it not inappropriate to the personality of Mrs. Roosevelt as she had revealed it, one way and another, over a long time.

Lynching, according to Webster's new international, is the infliction of punishment without the forms of law. The term "punishment" presumes the commission of some offense, but it is noted that Mrs. Roosevelt does not accuse of any wrong the person against whom she inclines an attack. She assumes that the mere fact that she desires a citizen to be assaulted automatically justifies the act.

"Lynching," therefore, is an inadequate word. But let it suffice.

Mrs. Roosevelt revealed much more of her character than the public ever realized she did in her autobiography "This Is My Story," published in 1937. It was acclaimed at the time as a courageous peeling of a noble soul. I take no issue with that opinion here. But it also was a subtle work of revenge by a unusually vain person who reveals her character many times in sweetly exultant little digs. To make a cliché that she might have written herself, the ugly duckling was now top dog.

At the age of 15, Mrs. Roosevelt was taken to Europe (again) and put in a girls' school near London run by Mlle. Souvestre, a French woman who had gone through the siege of Paris in 1870.

Further discussion of the Frenchwoman suggests that she was one of the fiercest cynics of the revolution. There have been facets of Mrs. Roosevelt's thoughts, or prejudices rather than intellectual thoughts, which suggest that this old Frenchwoman permanently affected her pupil's character. For several years after the New Deal began, Mrs. Roosevelt carried a knitting bag and made a remarkable effort to wear half in fear and half in frolic, that she was knitting red stitches according to classical French revolutionary precedent. To be sure, no Tories spat in the basket, but there was evidence that Mrs. Roosevelt wished the Roosevelt revolution had gone further.

The Boer War was on at this time and Mlle. Souvestre was pro-Brit. She let the English girls celebrate British victories and gathered the Americans and other foreigners about her for "interesting talks."

"Echoes of them still live in my mind," Mrs. Roosevelt wrote. "When certain subjects came up for discussion today (1937)."

"She told us she was a realist primarily because she could not comprehend a God who would think of bestowing such insignificant things as individual human beings. Doctrines of religion which preached rewards for good behavior and punishment for bad she considered food for small minds. Only the weak needed religion. I often thought what my dear religious grandmother would have thought had she been able to listen to some of the doctrines which Mlle. Souvestre propounded. I do not know what effect it had on the others, but, as far as I was concerned, I think it did me no harm. Mlle. Souvestre shocked me into thinking and that, on the whole, was beneficial."

I will not discuss theology here but invite attention to the character of the family which checked this very emotional little girl, with an admitted great longing for importance and an exaggerated sense of the inferiority merely because she was not "good looking", in a school run by a revolutionary French atheist.

And the "First Lady" of 1933 to 1945 heard "echoes" of Mlle. Souvestre's Communist revolutionary thinking during her husband's reign.

Further along Mrs. Roosevelt makes another of the remarkably frank, or naive, statements which enrich this book but somehow have been neglected for years by persons who couldn't explain why they regarded this outwardly ingratiating person as a moral and political menace.

She says it was a great advantage to be invited to sit opposite Mlle. Souvestre at table because, when the old girl had guests, she could overhear the conversation.

"I think that I started at this period a very bad habit which has stayed with me ever since. Frequently I would use, in talking to Mlle. Souvestre afterwards, things which I had overheard in her conversation with her friends and which passed through my rather quick mind, giving me some new ideas.

But, if anyone had asked me any questions, he would have soon discovered that I had no real knowledge of the thing I was talking about. As the years went by I began to realize that I had had a rather poor grounding in many subjects."

"I never really filled in the fundamentals that were lacking in my education. More and more, as I grew older, I used the quickness of my mind to pick the minds of other people and use their knowledge as my own. A dinner companion, a casual acquaintance, provided me with information which I could use in conversation. Few people knew how little I knew on a variety of subjects that I talked on with apparent ease."

These admissions should have been cited often in the last 16 years as Mrs. Roosevelt made herself important in foreign policy and ominous domestic issues. Knowing that her knowledge of a subject was no more than prattle or hearsay, she seemed never to hesitate to throw her weight on her side of any fateful decision.

And now we look back and learn that she told us long ago that her family's regard for the character and mind of a young girl was such that to get her off their hands they parked her with this atheistic French Revolutionary, a member of a tigerish breed of slashing hangers.

Now and again, Mrs. Roosevelt is not frank but naive. She wrote that she learned on Christmas Eve, 1902, in Rome, when Mlle. Souvestre took her to midnight Mass at St. Peter's—"I think—that Mlle. Souvestre was not an atheist at heart, after all."

"For," she writes, "she was as much moved as we were by the music and the lights" of a proceeding which Mrs. Roosevelt describes as a "colorful ceremony."

There is no capsule explanation of remarkably influential personality, but there is another blunt which contributes to understanding. "Attention and admiration were the things through all my childhood which I wanted because I was made to feel so conscious of the fact that nothing about me would attract attention or bring me admiration."

Further Stay Granted Sheridan by Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—Andrew Sheridan, convicted with two others of killing boss Steve Dore Anthony Hinz, has been granted a further stay of execution until March 10 by Governor Dewey.

The governor's office said the stay was granted at the request of the New York county district attorney's office pending final outcome of the appeal of John M. Dunn, 36, and Daniel Gentile, 40, both of Queens, who were convicted with Sheridan, by the state's highest court.

The three had been scheduled to die January 27. The executions of Dunn and Gentile are delayed automatically pending the high court ruling.

Sheridan, 56, of Jersey City, was convicted with Dunn and Gentile in General Sessions Court, New York city, December 31, 1947. His execution has been stayed several times.

Dunn and Gentile asked for a new trial after Sheridan, in a

Objectionable Comics

Editor, The Freeman:

Once again we were shocked to read in a recent issue of Kingston Daily Freeman, of the brutal murder of a 12 year old boy by another 16 years of age, whose mind had become distorted by the reading of so called comics. Too many have already been sacrificed on the altar of greed, through this nefarious business of teaching our children how to become criminals. There are now 10,000,000 copies a week being sold for profit. With that amount of poison coming into so many homes it is little wonder that these sickening stories are a daily item in our papers. This should not continue, and it need not if Christian people will perform their plain simple duty as such. Magazine dealers and distributors, of Topeka, Kansas, have found a quick easy and effective solution, with no interference with freedom of the press. They prepared a voluntary self-censorship plan to rid local news stands of objectionable comics, and all other reading branded as unfit for children. Parents are grateful and city officials are happy to be relieved of a difficult job. This action was the result of an avalanche of criticism from parents, teachers, church groups, and social workers. Not only Topeka, but Akron, Detroit, Harrisburg, Pa., and other cities have been greatly rewarded by seeing many of the comics thrown out. The dealers feel that the welfare of their children mean much more to their community than their own personal profits. What other cities have done, Kingston can do, if we will. Unless we act now, who knows, your own child may be the next victim. News dealers of Kingston, suppose you think seriously about this. Parents, teachers, and all who have the welfare of our children at heart, let us do our Christian duty to save our boys and girls before it is too late, and Kingston be forced to face the disgrace of one of these brutal crimes in our city. A most earnest appeal from one intensely interested in our youth.

One-Time Plowboy Is Inaugurated at Washington Today

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The old American legend that any farm boy can become president lived again today in a 64-year-old man from Missouri—Harry Truman.

With the stroke of noon, the one-time plowboy from Jackson county takes his place before the dignitaries of many foreign lands and before his own people.

His swearing to the oath of office launches him on a full four-year term in the White House, won on his own.

The feeling that Harry Truman was one of them flowed through the tens of thousands drawn to Washington by the magnet of his inauguration. They seemed to feel a close kinship with the President whose past is deep-rooted in the soil of the midwest.

Dines With Buddies
And Mr. Truman forged this link stronger by starting his great day at a breakfast with the old buddies he commanded in World War I as captain of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery. It was a simple gesture that underlined his loyalty to old friends.

Today, Washington was a city that had put aside everything for his hour of triumph—gay, fluttering with flags, and crammed with an excited million people.

Vendors hawked programs, Truman buttons, and souvenirs. Grandstands along the parade route on Pennsylvania avenue were sold out days ago. Standing room only was the lot of other tens of thousands.

Government workers and visitors prized their window "assignments." Some paid $12 a head just for a brief glimpse of Mr. Truman and a look at the two and a half hour parade.

Police patrolled the inaugural area on Capitol Hill and the parade route to the White House. Secret Service men were on the alert to prevent any harm to the President.

The center of the big crowd attraction was the decorated platform built for Mr. Truman's out-taking in front of the capitol.

Batteries of radio microphones were set up on the inaugural platform. And directly in front of the platform, camera crews manned their news, newsreel and television cameras.

Reporters flock to event
No other event in Washington history has drawn so many reporters to the city, one oldtimer said. The inaugural press headquarters said from "300 to 400" out-of-town newspapermen were on hand to supplement the regular Washington press corps.

The dignitaries invited to sit on the inaugural platform during the ceremony got printed instructions in advance on where to gather and when. They were the senators, representatives, supreme court justices, cabinet members, state governors, U. S. military chiefs, and ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries.

There were seats for 17,500 guests in front of the platform. Police expected more than 100,000 others to crowd their way into the park-like area around the plaza.

The Program
And then the historic inaugural ceremony...the singing of the National Anthem...the oath of office administered to Vice President-elect Alben Barkley of Kentucky, another one-time farm boy...the presidential oath administered to Harry Truman...the President's inaugural address...the benediction...and then the first parade.

This was the daddy of all parades in a city that has almost become bored by the ordinary variety.

At last count there were 38 bands and drum and bugle corps. There were 46 state, city and organization floats—headed by the float from the President's home state, Missouri.

Sun Comes Out
Truman Sees Wintry Sky, Lauds 'Old Man'

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—"It looks like old man weather is going to be with us again."

That was President Truman's first Inauguration Day observation to reporters today as he emerged from Blair House at 6:30 a. m.

Mr. Truman was up early to attend a breakfast at the Mayflower Hotel with World War I buddies of his old field artillery outfit, Battery D.

Within an hour after he scanned the wintry daybreak, the sun came out.

Two Youths Bitten
Two local youths were bitten by dogs yesterday afternoon. The police were notified at 4:20 p. m. by Ruth Davis of 44 Boulder avenue that her son, Michael, 9, was bitten on the left heel, and at 5:40 p. m. it was reported that Barbara Hearst, 14, of 369 Washington avenue was bitten on the left hand "by a large police dog" near Linderman avenue Noone's Lane.

Flavors Frosting
Next time you make a white frosting for a chocolate cake try adding a drop or two of peppermint flavoring. This also makes a good spread for sandwiching thin crisp chocolate cookies together.

Tips on Beets
A pound of beets, when cooked, peeled and diced, will make about two cups, enough for four persons. Season them with a little butter or margarine, salt, a dash of sugar and a little wine vinegar before serving.

21 States Ratify Amendment Limiting President to 2 Terms

(By The Associated Press)
While President Truman starts a new term, a proposed constitutional amendment to limit future presidents to two terms starts a new round of state legislatures.
This is how the score stands now:
The amendment has been ratified by 21 states.
It must be ratified in 35 more states before it can go into effect.
Legislatures in 25 states that have not approved the proposal now are meeting or will meet in the next few months.
Thus, there is a mathematical chance that it can be added to the nation's laws this year.
Democrats Cool
But, in most of the states that have not yet acted, control of the legislatures is in Democratic hands or is split between the two major parties. Democratic legislatures—except in Virginia and Mississippi—have been cool toward the proposition in the past.

The Democratic party was the only one that kept a president—Franklin D. Roosevelt—in the White House more than eight years. The amendment would not affect President Truman. He was exempted by a clause that says it "shall not apply to any person holding the office of president when this article was proposed by the Congress."
The Republican-controlled 80th Congress started the amendment on a circuit of the states in March 1947. The states have until March 1951, to act on it.
Prospects were sized up this way in reports from state capitols:
Indiana—A resolution for ratification has been introduced. Passage by the Republican senate seems certain. Democrats run the House.
Massachusetts—The tenure limit was endorsed last year by the Legislature and by the people at the Nov. 2 election. Now it goes back to the lawmakers for final action. Democrats have a thin margin in the House. Senate strength is evenly divided.
Idaho—the amendment will be submitted. The House is dominated by Republicans, the Senate by Democrats.
Minnesota—Legislative leaders say the amendment may get favorable action "if someone gets behind it and pushes."
Montana—the proposition is expected to have rough going in the Democratic House. The Senate is Republican.
Nevada—the amendment probably will pass even though the governor and one house are Democratic.
North Carolina—the amendment, if and when it comes up, probably will win strong support.
North Dakota—the proposal will be introduced but there is no early indication of its fate.
Washington—the amendment probably will be considered again. It died in committee in the previous session.
Wyoming—ratification is uncertain. Republicans are in charge of the Senate but the two parties are tied in House strength.
Maryland—the legislative council has not put the amendment on its agenda but it is likely to be acted upon anyway.
No action is expected in Arizona and Oklahoma.
There is no indication now of what, if anything, will be done in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, New Mexico, South Carolina, Utah, Rhode Island, South Dakota, West Virginia, Tennessee and Texas.

Donation Day was held at the home on October 28, at which time visitors are always invited and the guests of the home are also present. A short musical program was rendered after which refreshments were served from a prettily decorated table.
The cash receipts amounted to $545.50 and many articles of food were received.

Numerous entertainments have been given by the various churches and other organizations of the city for which the guests are very happy.

Our expenses for nursing and hospital care have been much larger than in previous years.

Very little money has been

Our Good Cheer Committee has given many extra niceties during the year.

At Christmas time the home was elaborately decorated in keeping with the holiday season by Mr. Parks.

Santa Claus appeared with a large pack and jingling bells, all tagged in his Christmas suit and capered with all the guests. Then each one drew a gift from the pack.

Man's Body Found In Cabin; Isolated In High Sierras

Markleeville, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—The body of a mountaineer who had been unreported since December 23 was found in a snowbound cabin in the high Sierras yesterday. With the discovery was evidence of a dog's frantic efforts to aid his dying master.

A party of six rescuers pushed through seven-foot snow to an emergency shelter cabin and found Norman Green, 56, dead in his sleeping bag.

A search for Green was intensified yesterday when his big shepherd dog crawled into town half starved and with his footpads worn away by a struggle through ice and snow.

Coroner George Cayan estimated the veteran snow surveyor and lake tender for the Pacific Gas & Electric Company had been dead from two to three weeks. He said death apparently was due to a heart attack caused by exhaustion and exposure.

The shelter cabin was stocked with emergency food for winter use.

A cabin window was broken. The coroner said apparently Green's dog, Rover, had knocked out the second-story pane and jumped 25 feet to the snow, then chewed at one of the shutters on a first floor window in an effort to gain entrance to pull out his master.

Armistice Talks

between Israel and Trans-Jordan. The Tel Aviv informant said Israeli and Lebanese delegations will meet again at Ras En Naqura for additional armistice talks around the end of the week.

Rhodes informants said Bunche had set this week-end as the deadline for success or failure of the U.N. efforts to negotiate an armistice between Israel and Egypt in Palestine. The sources said the talks were progressing "smoothly without setbacks" but were being retarded by a "multitude of details."

The Egyptians and Israelis seek agreement on how much of the Negev Israel shall control. The Jews hope to develop the southern desert area into farm land and tap its reputed oil and mineral resources.

Informants said Bunche and his aides plan to return to the United States in less than a week.

The mediator's duties are scheduled to end with the conclusion of the armistice talks. The U.N. Conciliation Commission on Palestine, now in Geneva, will then take over. It is due to arrive in Athens Saturday, en route to Jerusalem. Later Bunche will transfer records to the commission.

Bunche is arranging an armistice. The commission has been instructed by the U.N. to seek peace.

Bull in a China Shop—But Really!

This is a scientific experiment. Jack Rankin, of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, wanted to know exactly what would happen if a bull got in a china shop. So he rode Ferdinand through his own china shop, and found out. Rankin concluded bulls in china shops do less damage than one would think; they seem to prefer smashing their cheaper grades of merchandise.

Those who attended the basketball game in Ashokan Tuesday night in which the Atoms trimmed the Fulcrums quintet and thus won their third game in succession, report plenty of excitement at this athletic set-to. The games this season are said to be reminiscent of the lively scrimmages which used to take place at the old Davis bowling alleys in Ashokan during waterworks days.

Claude and Robert Farrell, newcomers to Shokan, left Wednesday for New York where they will live with their aunt and go to school in the big city. Claude has been a pupil of the Shokan school.

William Lafferty, one of the best-known old timers in neighboring Shandaken, was among the business callers in the hub of the reservoir country Wednesday morning.

Earl G. Brundage, Olive collector of taxes, will sit at Leonard Colange's store on January 25, and at Winchell's store January 28, for the convenience of taxpayers in this part of the town. The hours in each case will be from 10 to 4.

Jerry Phillips with his truck and Ray Cudney are attending to the sanding of the roads in the Ashokan sector this winter.

Birthdays Sunday, January 23, include that of Lorin Hoyer, well-known South Olive farmer and bluestone quarryman. Lorin, who with his wife is active in the Krumville Church, is a son of the late Benjamin and Nina (Emist) Hoyer, general storekeepers in the lower part of the town for many years.

ernment powers but no important steps are taken without its approval.

(From Peiping, Spencer Moosa, Associated Press correspondent, got through a dispatch saying terms agreeable in principle to both sides had been reached there. He quoted a member of a peace delegation to the Communists as saying the terms call for the surrender of Peiping and all North China. Moosa cautioned these terms had not been put into effect.

(Under the Peiping terms, said Moosa's source, Peiping and Kweisui in Szechuan Province, would be handed over to the Reds. The Nationalist commander in the north, Gen. Fu Tso-yi, would step down and be removed from the Communist "war criminals" list. Moosa warned the deal had not been completed and might yet slip, but the Nationalist position in North China seemed hopeless.)

Chiang was invited to preside over the Kuomintang Political Council meeting but did not attend. The right wing clique tried to block the move for a negotiated peace.

Observers took Chiang's absence and silence to mean that he was letting party members sweat over the truce problem and then will come to his own decision when he gets ready.

Some foreign observers considered the council meeting and the executive Yuan's peace efforts as some more Chinese political double-talk while the government sought to rise from the floor and fight on.

The Communists have demanded total surrender.

The foreign office and some other ministries will move southward tomorrow. Most of them will go to Canton, although other ministries are being scattered to different cities.

U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart and diplomatic representatives of other nations studied the question of remaining in Nanking and sending a part of their staffs with the fleeing government branches, periled by approaching Communist armies from the north.

St. John's Church Plans Reunion for Parish Servicemen

The Vestry of St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany and Tremper avenues, will sponsor a parish party and veterans reunion on Saturday, February 12, the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector, announced today.

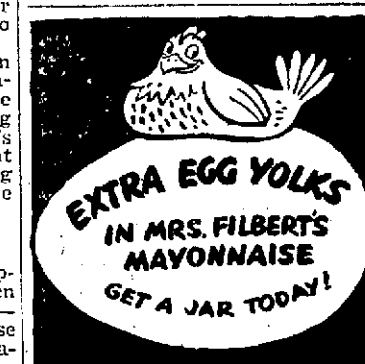

The party will take place in the parish hall beginning at 4 p. m. and concluding at 5:30 p. m. All veterans who are members of the parish are cordially invited to attend. Entertainment and refreshments will be included on the program.

Arrangements for the affair are being formulated by a committee including Thomas A. Horton, Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Fred Scott, Gaspard St. Leger, Bert Bishop, Mrs. Frederic Holcomb and Mrs. Harold Loughran.

Approximately 100 members of the church who are veterans will be notified of the party and reunion.

Sentence Reduced

Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 20 (AP)—Hungary's supreme court of justice today reduced sentence of Dr. Simon Papp, managing director of the Hungarian subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company (N.J.) to life in jail. Papp was sentenced to death on December 9 by a people's court of justice. At the time the court said Papp got instructions "from several members of the American commercial mission in Budapest" to reduce production of oil wells under the postwar government.

The car, out of gas, was recovered by state police at Walden.

Will Make Survey For Sewer in Area Of Tannery Brook

A sewer system survey in the uptown area is expected to prevent future flood conditions on properties along the Tannery brook, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Public Works. The mayor informed Henry J. Rover, 26 Linderman avenue, of the survey plan, after Rover had asked the board to consider some action that would bring relief to property owners along the brook. A major purpose of the survey is to make use of a tunnel built years ago in the uptown area by the New York city water department in conjunction with its Ashokan reservoir project. The Linderman avenue resident said that he resided between Will street and Washington avenue, and the brook which runs through that sector, during the heavy rain of this winter, had left 40 inches of water in his cellar and had flooded others in the area. The brook overflows its banks at least twice a year, he said, and during the recent storm, it had inundated a section of Linderman avenue to a depth of about 15 inches of water. The tunnel project was mentioned in the request to the board, and the mayor explained that the city engineer had recommended the survey and a provision for it was made in this year's budget.

Will Give Proposal

Lake Success, Jan. 20 (UP)—The United States, China, Cuba and Norway were reported ready today to lay before the Security Council a joint proposal on Indonesia. Consultations continued this morning on the final terms of the resolution, but the four sponsors expressed confidence they would have a draft in the hands of council when it meets at 3 p. m.

TUNA FISH DRESSES UP SPAGHETTI

A spaghetti ring makes novel housing for tuna a la king.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Staff Writer

Fish, either canned or salted, keeps well on the pantry shelf. But don't keep it there too long if you are looking for good protein food all the family will enjoy.

Tuna a la King in Spaghetti Ring (Serves 6)

Two cups medium white sauce, 1 green pepper, minced, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 pintino, cut in thin strips, 2 cups canned tuna fish, salt and pepper, 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten.

Prepare white sauce. Saute green pepper in butter until tender but not browned. Add green pepper, pintino, and tuna fish to hot white sauce. Season to taste and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in egg yolks and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Pour mixture into center of spaghetti mold.

Spaghetti Mold

One 8-ounce package spaghetti,

2 eggs, slightly beaten, 2 cups medium white sauce.

Cook whole spaghetti. Add eggs to white sauce and mix lightly with spaghetti. With vegetable tongs, or large spoons, pick spaghetti, arrange in well-greased ring mold and fill with remaining mixture, stirring enough to mix the two. Place mold in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 1/2 hour. When ready to serve, unmold and fill center with tuna a la king.

Creamed Codfish

(Serves 6)

Two and one-half cups salt codfish, shredded, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 1/2 cups milk, 2 eggs, beaten slightly.

Soak fish in cold water 30 minutes, or place fish in saucepan, cover with cold water and bring to boil twice, draining each time. Melt butter in another pan. Add flour and stir until smooth. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly and cook until fish is heated through. Remove from fire. Add a little mixture to the beaten eggs. Pour back and stir into first mixture. Then return to fire and heat quickly, stirring constantly. Serve on toast rounds, with baked potato or with rice potatoes.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, scrambled eggs, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, cranberry jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted cheese sandwiches, cold slaw, chocolate cupcakes, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tuna a la king in spaghetti ring, canned peas, baked squash, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, apple pie, coffee, milk.

Shokan, Jan. 19—Mrs. Burton Tandy and Miss Edna Longyear have been appointed a committee on arrangements for the Ladies' Aid Society's song service, and social in the Shokan Reformed Church on Friday evening, Jan. 28. This will be a community affair and it is hoped that musical talent from the Shokan Church will assist in the program. Proceeds from the sale of cafeteria refreshments at the social will be donated to the local March of Dimes campaign.

The bad bus manners of school pupils as set forth in a letter to Emily Post in Friday's Freeman is in sharp contrast to the commendable behavior of K.H.S. students on the west bound Pine Hill buses. Jersey Farms Gave Better '48 Yield Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—New Jersey farm products were worth 8.6 per cent—or $20,033,000—more last year than they were in 1947, the State Department of Agriculture said today.

Statistical Supervisor D. T. Pitt said preliminary figures showed a 1948 output of $320,774,000 as compared with the previous year's $300,741,000.

Pitt emphasized that his figures represented total production, including hay and grain for farm animals and food for farm families. As a result, he said, actual cash income for the state's farmers would be somewhat lower.

The increases came principally from eggs, poultry and meat animals, he declared, with eggs and poultry constituting the largest commodity group. Last year's egg output totaled $77,500,000, about $1,000,000 above 1947, while poultry climbed from $16,600,000 to $23,000,000.

A $2,800,000 increase was noted for meat animals.

Tree fruits showed a decline of $1,100,000 and the berry crop dropped $600,000, the only two decreases noted in Pitt's report.

Three Fighters Collide, Two Pilots Killed

Neuberg, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP)—Three American fighter planes collided in the air over southern Germany today, killing two of the pilots.

The third pilot baled out and was reported in "fairly good condition."

The U. S. Air Force said the three F-47 planes, a modernized version of the P-47 Thunderbolt—collided while on a formation flight. It was not immediately known how the accident occurred, but an air force spokesman said the planes apparently "locked wings."

The collision took place 10 miles south of Neuberg, where the planes were based.

Names of the pilots were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Ceilings Are Limit in Most Hotel Accidents, Is Report

Chicago (AP)—If something in a hotel falls on you, the chances are 50-50 it will be the ceiling.

An analysis of 1,000 hotel accidents, compiled by Kemper Insurance safety engineers, showed that in 140 of them, persons were injured by falling objects. Half of these were hurt by the ceiling or parts of it falling on them. Next to ceilings, the most dangerous falling objects with which guests somehow became involved were windows, window shades and various types of lifting, rolling or folding beds.

However, the survey showed that most guests are far more likely to fall than be fallen on. Altogether, 470 persons were hurt in this type of accident, most of them in falls on stairways. Another 210 persons tripped over miscellaneous objects. Half of this group tripped on defective stairs and another quarter tripped on rugs.

Fifty persons were caught in doors, revolving and otherwise, and another 70 persons hurt themselves on sharp objects. The rest of the injuries came in accidents listed as "unclassifiable."

A total of 2375 tons of rouge is used annually by American women.

PRESIDENT'S ARMY COOK

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Truman began his inauguration day with a 7 a. m. breakfast frolic with old buddies of World War One.

They gave him a gold-headed walking stick, sang a song to him and kept him busy autographing menus, dollar bills and programs. And they grinned at his admonition to "stay sober" until after the inaugural parade in which they had a place of honor.

The President was visibly pleased with his new walking stick.

He said he planned to use it on his regular morning walks, and added:

"I will pass it on to my daughter and perhaps some day she can give it to my grandson."

The President's daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. Truman were still fast asleep when the Chief Executive left Blair House for the brief auto ride to his Mayflower Hotel rendezvous with fellow veterans of Battery D.

Mr. Truman was one of the first arrivals for a breakfast of their cranberry juice, Missouri ham and hominy grits.

There were about 100 battery members there, as guests of the man they knew in the old days as "Captain Harry."

When he entered the room someone addressed him as "Mr. President," but he cut that off by saying:

"We'll have none of that here. I'm Captain Harry."

There was little ceremony at the breakfast. The battery's old chaplain, Msgr. L. Curtis Tierman, pronounced grace at the President's request.

Had Own Song
Eugene P. Donnelly of Kansas, City got up and sang an inaugural song composed in collaboration with Morris G. Riley, also of K. C. It started off, "It's a long time since 1918," and went on in the tune of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," "so its hello, Captain Truman with the boys you led so well; you're a great guy, Harry Truman, for you—we'd march through hell."

The President called the early breakfast turnout "the greatest compliment that could be paid a man."

Despite the "rubber tires around the middle" of most his guests, he predicted they would be able to walk the mile and a quarter parade route without any trouble.

O.K. After One
"After one o'clock or 25 minutes thereafter, I don't give a damn what you do, but I want you to stay sober up until then," he said.

At one point, the President looked at a photograph of the White House on the wall.

"There is something wrong, there is something missing," he quipped. "This shows the south side of the White House, and there is no portico on it."

This reference to the controversy over his building of the south balcony brought a laugh.

After the breakfast the President went to the White House where he stayed about 15 minutes. Then he returned to the Blair House to get dressed for inaugural church services and his later oath taking.

On his way out of the White House he expressed concern over a big fire in his home town of Independence, Mo., and asked reporters to relay to him any details they received.

Grand Jury Will Convene Monday

Wednesday in Supreme Court a negligence action brought by Anthony Mandla against Elsie H. Hugg was announced settled. There was no other case ready for trial and an adjournment was taken until today for additions to the day calendar. Jurors were excused until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The grand jury will convene Monday and a partial report will be made at that time. Members of the present grand jury will be held over for the February term, and, if necessary arises additional matters will be presented at that time.

Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth will preside at the February trial term, in place of Justice Harry E. Schrick, who is holding the present trial term.

clared the farm price support law he co-sponsored last year had "many faults."

"There is no question," the ranking Republican member of the House Agriculture Committee declared, "that the Aiken Bill will have to be reconsidered in the present Congress, no matter what the policy may be as to price supports and controls."

Hope sponsored the measure with Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) It was enacted by Congress last June to become effective next Jan. 1.

Henry D. Sherwood, master of the New York State Grange, declared he believed "that the only permanent safeguard for farm prosperity, over the long pull, is to be found in free enterprise, free markets, and free prices."

He said "a lot of substantial farm people here in New York think that government control is just plain bad for us."

"Washington is reaching," he said, "for power over agricultural production, prices and markets on a scale comparable only with that of the Socialistic regime in Britain. Not only reaching, but in considerable measure already has seized it."

The society re-elected Earl B. Clark of North Norwich as president for a second one-year term.

Two New Yorkers Held as Result of Boating Fatality

Conway, S. C., Jan. 20 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Earl Jordan said today two New York men were being held here in connection with a fatal boating accident Sunday.

The officer said Carlton Kinghorn of Mamaroneck, skipper of the yacht "Laubar", and Arthur Stanley of 113 Bush avenue, Port Chester, were charged with "murder due to negligence."

Jordan reported Miss Ollie Mew of Horry county drowned when the small boat carrying her and four companions capsized in the inland waterway by waves from a passing yacht.

The four others, including a two-year-old child, escaped. The child, Jenny Wayne Skipper, was carried ashore unconscious by Ed Page, pilot of the smaller boat.

A coroner's jury ruled Miss Mew met death through negligence on the part of the skipper and the helmsman of the yacht.

Page was carrying the passengers across the waterway from Bucksport near here to a fish fry when the accident happened.

The officer said the yacht was en route from New York to Miami, Fla., with four others aboard.

The 75-foot vessel, listed as the property of the Beaufort Realty Corp. of New York, was reportedly used as a pleasure craft for members of the firm, Jordan said.

He added other members of the party who were with Stanley and Kinghorn, were remaining aboard the "Laubar", which is tied up at a Bucksport pier under a sheriff's department attachment.

Bond for the two men could not be arranged, the deputy explained, until their attorney appears before a judge.

After Walking Many Miles, They're Free

The western Berlin city government has set up a welfare office for refugees from the Russian zone. Each day, nearly 150 fugitives from Soviet tyranny escape to the west. Most of them, their feet aching from long miles of walking on tattered shoes, have fled via the underground. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Al Cocking.)

Fugitives From Tyranny Find Peace

Fleeing from the tyranny of the Soviet zone, 150 refugees a day pour into eight crowded camps in western Berlin. Here they're able to relax in an atmosphere of freedom, even though the camps are jammed to capacity. Many of the fugitives were slave laborers in Russia's uranium mines. action. Under the other three this nation would:

1. Continue "unflinching support to the United Nations" and search for ways to strengthen it.
2. Continue programs for world economic recovery; first, through the European Recovery Program; second, by increasing world trade.
3. Strengthen "freedom-loving nations against the dangers of aggression." Mr. Truman flatly promised: "We will provide military advice and equipment to free nations which will cooperate with us in the maintenance of peace and security."

Russia Is Named
While the President nowhere named Russia outright, in his scathing attack on Communism, his words apparently ended any possibility of quick and easy compromise between the Soviet Union and the West.

But "in due time," he said, he believes "those countries which now oppose us will abandon their delusions and join with the free nations of the world in a just settlement of international differences."

That he does not consider such a settlement possible now he made clear at the very outset. The United States and other non-Communist nations, he declared, have been balked in their work for "a just and lasting peace" by a regime with contrary aims and a totally different concept of life.

"That regime adheres to a false philosophy which purports to offer freedom, security and greater opportunity to mankind," he asserted. "Misled by this philosophy, many peoples have sacrificed their liberty only to learn to their sorrow that deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny, are their reward."

"That false philosophy is Communism," he said.

Comparing "False Philosophy" with democracy, he went on to compare that "false" philosophy with democracy.

"Communism," he said, is based on the belief that man is so weak and inadequate that he is unable to govern himself, and therefore requires the rule of strong masters.

"Democracy is based on the conviction that man has the moral and intellectual capacity, as well as the inalienable right, to govern himself with reason and justice."

"Communism subjects the individual to arrest without lawful cause, punishment without trial, and forced labor as the chattel of the state. It decrees what information he shall receive, what art he shall produce, what leaders he shall follow, and what thoughts he shall think."

"Democracy maintains that government is established for the benefit of the individual, and is charged with the responsibility of protecting the rights of the individual and his freedom in the exercise of his abilities."

"Communism maintains that social wrongs can be corrected only by violence."

"Democracy has proved that social justice can be achieved through peaceful change."

"Communism holds that the world is so deeply divided into opposing classes that war is inevitable."

"Democracy holds that free nations can settle differences justly and maintain lasting peace."

Mr. Truman said he stated his concept of the differences between Communism and democracy "not to draw issues of belief as such, but because the actions resulting from the Communist philosophy are a threat to the efforts of free nations to bring about world recovery and lasting peace."

He reviewed what the United States has done for peace through the United Nations and by direct aid, and indicated that while much progress has been made, a long, difficult and costly struggle still lies ahead.

"Our efforts have brought new hope to all mankind," he said. "We have beaten back despair and defeatism. We have saved a number of countries from losing their liberty. Hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us, that we need not have war—that we can have peace."

"The initiative is ours."

American Indians made no use of water-power, but the Pilgrims used it to grind corn as early as 1620.

"DIRECTLY OPPOSITE READE'S THEATRE"

Democrats Claim 5,000 New Yorkers Attend Ceremony

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Thousands of cheering New Yorkers lined historic Pennsylvania avenue today for President Truman's glittering inaugural parade.

One estimate, by Ben Wetzler, assistant to State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick of Buffalo, set the number of New Yorkers in town as "at least" 5,000.

Included, in addition to newly all county Democratic leaders, were such big-shot party names as Mayor O'Dwyer of New York, and James A. Farley and Edward J. Flynn, former chairmen of the Democratic national committee from New York. But they were only the headliners of an impressive list.

"I don't know of a single prominent Democrat from New York that isn't here today," Wetzler told a reporter. "It's fabulous!"

Most of the party leaders from the state were given choice seats from which to view the long parade which stretched from Capitol Hill to past the White House.

A majority of more prominent personages were seated in stands adjoining President Truman's reviewing stand.

High-spot of the parade from the New York point of view—aside from the appearance of Mr. Truman and Vice-President Barkley—was the New York state float, financed by the state Democratic committee.

The float, which up to late yesterday afternoon had not been viewed by representatives of the committee, came into being after the Republican-controlled state government decided against entering an official exhibit.

The explanation from Albany was that there were "no funds" available. After that, the committee voted to sponsor one.

The float, cost of which was estimated at approximately $2,500, presented a three-dimensional panorama of New York from the Empire State Building in Manhattan to Niagara Falls.

The parade also presented the precise marching of the grey-clad U. S. Military Academy cadets from West Point.

As a further indication of the number of New Yorkers in town, one delegation—that from Kings county—looked over 38 double rooms in the Lafayette Hotel. The rest of the delegation of more than 300 overflowed into other hotels.

John Cashmore, borough president of Brooklyn and chairman of the Kings County Democratic Committee, headed the delegation. Tomorrow night Cashmore will play host to all Brooklyn members of the house at a dinner in the Mayflower Hotel.

Public Works are to be held, that the B.P.W. arrange for such medical examination prior to said tests.

It is the opinion of the commission, the letter said, "that no fee can be charged a candidate other than the application fee as stipulated in Section 14 of the Civil Service Law."

A letter from the consistory of the First Reformed Dutch Church asked the board to determine whether a tree at Main and Fair streets, considered dangerous, is the responsibility of the city or the church. It was referred to the corporation counsel.

The letter, signed by B. C. Van Ingen, clerk of the consistory, explained that the large elm tree across from the Burgevin building had grown beyond the curb and out into the street and that large, dead limbs were overhanging Main street.

The board approved the appointment of Gordon M. Taylor, 46 Fairmont avenue, as Engineer's Aide Grade 1, on a temporary basis. This was on recommendation of City Engineer Arthur Hallinan, who explained in a letter that the extra help was needed "in order to make field surveys" in planning for the year's construction program.

A request of The Diapers Inc., Greenkill avenue, or the board's consideration on the clearing of title on certain property, was referred to the corporation counsel and Mayor Oscar Z. Newkirk and Commissioner John J. Egan as a special committee.

The request made through a letter from the concern's attorneys Cashin & Riggs was the same as that referred recently to the Common Council. It explained that the corporation, which manufactures display items, plans to expand and build a railroad spur.

Properly near, the plant is expected to be acquired from the New York Central railroad and there is a question of the city's title to some of the land needed.

British Wives Say GI Husbands Are Wolves

London, Jan. 20 (AP)—British author Beverley Nichols reports that many British G.I. brides are unhappy because their American husbands are still wolves.

He said he got that impression while on a visit to the United States. Nichols, whose books and newspaper columns have taken him into many a lively debate, reported his observations to the widely read magazine, Woman's Own.

"American husbands give a somewhat loose interpretation to the word fidelity," he wrote. And he warned British girls, "if you marry an American you marry a foreigner, just as much as if you were marrying a Spaniard or a Greek."

"British girls who lived in cities that were filled with American troops during the war will probably agree that the American male is not notoriously unsexed," Nichols said. "In the war days this didn't seem to matter so much. There was a certain charm in so much virility. In the wolf with his easy grin."

"But the charm is apt to wear thin, when having crossed the water, you discover that the wolf is still a wolf."

One British girl to whom he talked, he said, also was a little unhappy in the New World because there was no hedge, not even a fence, around her home. He said he got the impression the only door the Americans close is the bathroom door.

But one British G.I. bride telephoned him at Salt Lake City, world.

I'm the happiest girl in the world.

Many Social Gatherings

This was only one of a score or more social gatherings that have been scheduled by New Yorkers from all parts of the state. Meanwhile, many Democratic members of the New York Congressional Delegation held more or less open house in their offices atop Capitol Hill.

The keynote everywhere was hospitality and good-fellowship.

One New York visitor, after sampling various brands of hospitality, mourned:

"What a hangover this town is going to have tomorrow morning."

Yesterday, today, and probably most of tomorrow, the keynote at New York State headquarters—presided over by Wetzler—was confusion.

Wetzler was the center of the disturbance. He has been and is being assailed from all sides by requests for tickets to the numerous official and semi-official functions.

Wetzler couldn't begin to supply the demand. Attempting to make everybody happy, he'd make an excuse here and a half-promise there.

"Oh," he wailed, "this is awful. I'm going crazy, crazy."

William B. Mahoney, Erie county Democratic chief, estimated 300 to 400 persons were present from the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area. Walter J. Jesella, head of the Niagara county committee, joined in his estimate.

One notable absentee was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The Republican presidential nominee, some time ago announced that he would be unable to attend the inaugural ceremonies of his successful rival because of the press of legislative business in Albany.

Truman Enters Stage of Putting Program to Work

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The inauguration platform President Truman mounts today is a symbol of an unprecedented $42,000,000 social-economic program with which he is launching his "fair deal."

Fifteen days ago, with a confidence bolstered by more than 24,000,000 supporting votes in the November election, Mr. Truman gave the new Democratic-controlled Congress a blueprint of what he wants to keep the nation prosperous and restore real world peace.

Basically, there was not much new in the message. It was the details and method which drew the most complaints from the Republican opposition and from some members of his own party.

The year 1948—some say the first 100 days—may give an idea of the percentage of success the program has in a cautiously-moving legislature.

Here in brief are the President's principal recommendations:

Four billion dollars in new taxes, chiefly on business.

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law and re-enactment of the Wagner Act with "certain improvements."

Raise the statutory minimum wage from 40 to 47.5 cents an hour.

Expand the Social Security program and raise benefits through higher payroll taxes.

Enact a system of prepaid medical insurance.

Appropriate federal money to help local schools.

Extend and strengthen rent control.

Continue the government's power to control consumer credit, and enlarge its authority over bank credit.

Authorize regulation of speculation on commodity exchanges.

Continue export controls, also priorities and allocation authority in the transportation field.

Authorize priorities and allocations for key material in short supply.

Standby authority to control wages and certain prices, if needed.

Authorize study of facilities for producing basic materials now critically short, such as steel; authorize government construction of production plants if private industry doesn't.

Rebuild and strengthen the Department of Labor.

Strengthen anti-trust laws.

Use farm price supports to achieve abundant agricultural production and parity of income for farmers.

Press development of power, irrigation, navigation and flood control projects, including the controversial St. Lawrence waterway.

Keep oil-rich tidelands for the government.

Pass housing legislation called.

U. S. Had No Chief For 29 Minutes Today

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—For 29 minutes today, the United States had no president.

Constitution says the presidential term shall end at noon on January 20.

Technically, then, Harry S. Truman's term ended at noon and he was only a president-elect and not a president.

He officially began his new term upon taking the oath at 12:29 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

No one in official Washington was concerned about the lapse.

By Appointment

Berlin, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Communist rump government in the eastern sector of Berlin announced today the establishment of a separate city parliament—named by appointment rather than by elections which had been promised.

The new "parliament" is designed to give an appearance of popular support for the hand-picked separate government which the Communists set up November 30. It would rival the elected city assembly chosen in the western Berlin elections December 5. The elections were boycotted by the Communists after the Russians refused to let their sector take part.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market timidly picked its way forward today.

Advances were far from impressive, most of them being in small fractions. A handful of key issues slipped a notch or two and many were unchanged.

The improvement, although slight, was enough to lift the general level of prices, as measured by the Associated Press stock average, to the best level since early November. It was the fifth day in a row in which the market has gently advanced.

Nickel plate, Owens-Illinois U. S. Gypsum, and consolidated natural gas were among the few stocks to show gains of any consequence. All moved up 1 1/2 points or more. Amerasia petroleum jumped 3.

Others ahead included Republic Steel, General Motors, Firestone, Woolworth, Boeing, Schenley, Union Carbide, Philip Morris, Radio Corp., Plough, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, United Air Lines, Sinclair Oil, and Pan American Airways.

Leaning backward were Goodrich, and Dillards. American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott Copper, Westinghouse Electric, du Pont, American Woolen, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, and Standard Oil (N.J.).

In the curb Montgomery Ward "A" added around 2 points and smaller gains appeared for Babcock & Wilcox, Colt's Mfg., Lone Star Gas, Louisiana Land, and United Gas Cities Service.

Creole Petroleum, Kaiser-Frazer, Humble Oil, and Colgate Copper Bonds, where changed, were mostly a little higher. U. S. government bonds were firm in over-the-counter dealings.

This region was established as a United States National Park in 1929 and considerable acreage has been added to the park. Rockefeller was responsible for a large tract of land being added to the site. Mrs. Johnson also described the problems of the 15 to 20 thousand elk in the park. She showed a number of views of the region.

Another topic of the day was Religion in the News and each member reported something in this line.

UNINVITED WEDDING GUESTS

A question seldom asked is: "Our church has a limited number of seats. Our guest list is long. Naturally we would like to seat a majority of the invited guests. But as a rule, interested strangers and acquaintances will come to the church, even though not invited, and slip into back seats. At my wedding, even the back seats will be needed for our invited guests. Therefore, can some sort of card be enclosed with invitations which people are to present to an usher to insure them a seat. Even so, how can an usher, without discourtesy, prevent a stranger from going in and sitting in a back seat? Please clarify all this for us."

It is entirely proper and customary to enclose cards in all invitations reading, "Please present this card at the church." At the single door of entrance (the others must be closed) the sexton or someone in his place is posted to take the cards and no one is admitted without a card.

Politeness in Big City
Dear Mrs. Post: It has been said that manners in public should be "modest and reticent." But how does anyone who advocates this as the behavior of decent people expect a man or woman to get home from work during the rush hours on crowded trains?

Answer: They must be as dignified as the situation permits. Unhappily, there is no other answer!

New Bride Complains
Dear Mrs. Post: It is up to the new bride to invite the relatives of both families and nearest friends to her house? That is, to set a definite time for the different ones. No one seems to be coming of her own accord, which

I thought they were supposed to do. Answer: Correctly, they should call on the bride. But since it is always better to develop friendliness, there would be no objection to her asking them, a few at a time, to come in for a cup of tea and see the house.

"Gentlemen of the Old School"
Dear Mrs. Post: I'd like to know whether you think it is or is not a compliment to be called a gentleman of the old school.

Answer: If he is of sufficient age, nothing could be a higher compliment. On the other hand, it would not be altogether flattering to a very young man.

"Is it wrong for a girl to telephone a boy at his house?" This is one of the 30 questions answered in a quiz for girls and boys of high-school age in a leaflet, E-11, by Mrs. Post. Port Trips Middies, 38 to 29; Middletown Here Friday

Port Jervis bounced back from its 46 to 28 defeat at the hands of Kingston High School Tuesday night with a hard-fought 38 to 29 conquest over MacWagner's Middletown High basketballers. The DUSO League triumph pushed Port to within a half game of the second place Monticello team.

The Middies, who will attempt to crack Kingston's spectacular 42-game winning streak at the municipal auditorium Friday night, stayed with the Tri-Staters for the first half but bowed out in the final period when the winners pulled out in front with a comfortable margin.

Ray Nicolette, Port's famed football back, sparked the winners in the scoring column with an individual total of 15 markers. Stan Miller of Middletown was high for his club with nine points.

After trailing in the opening stanza, the Middies shattered Port's lead in the midway quarter on some nifty shooting by Miller. Again in the third canto Middletown came from behind to take a slim lead of 18 to 17. The margin was short-lived, however, as Nicolette and Jay Bauer buckrked two-pointers to turn the lead back to Port.

Although Foster Cady, Middle reserve, tossed in five points in the final quarter, Port Jervis pulled away to compile its third DUSO League victory in five starts.

The score:
Port Jervis (38)—Furman 7, Smith 9, Bauer 2, Nicolette 15, Polansky 3, Hoppely 2.

Middletown (29)—Cook 4, Lakin 2, Adams 4, Brown 2, Kindberg 3, Cady 5, Miller 9.

Maximum Slash
The $7,500 would be a maximum slash. Under a major league player-management agreement, a salary cut cannot exceed 25 per cent.

Cooper said he hadn't corresponded with the Giants about the salary cut, but that he would see Leo Durocher in either St. Louis or Kansas City February 1 and perhaps the difficulties could be ironed out then.

Cooper, "doing nothing and enjoying it" at his fashionable ranch-style home about 20 miles east of Kansas City, showed no sign of a lump as he waded in knee-deep snow to pose for a picture with his prized pointer bird dog, "Queen."

NO SNOW, SO
SKI SHOES

There's no sense of keeping them on the shelf. So if you think you're going to have snow, you can buy a $11 pair for only $8 and a $10 pair for only $7.

Beichert's, Potters Upset Victims In Recreation Basketball League

Two of the top clubs in the Recreation Basketball League—Beichert's Studabakers and Potter Brothers—were upset in last night's schedule of games at the municipal auditorium. Schuler's Inn knocked off Potters in the first overtime game of the season by 44-39 and Chez Emile edged Beichert's by 40 to 39 in the other clash.

The third tilt of the night found Ray's Riversiders scoring a 59 to 40 triumph over the Skylines.

In the opener, Schuler's Inn, sparked by Vince Peck and George Hughes, pulled away from the favorite Potters. Then with just five seconds left on the clock, Potters evened the count at 37-all. Green took the scoring honors for the losers with 13. Peck pushed in 15 and Hughes tallied 10 for the winners.

Glaser Wins Game

George Glaser's duce in the last 18 seconds of play turned the tide in favor of Chez Emile in its upset victory over Beichert's. The losers held a three point edge at half time and continued to lead until the final period when Chez Emile forged ahead.

With 58 seconds remaining in the game the score was knotted on Herb Wagner's two pointer. A foul conversion by Glaser gave the Chezies a 38-37 lead but again Wagner rammed back with a duce to give Beichert's a 39-38 edge. Glaser then applied the Frank Merriwell finish for the Chezies and the second big upset of the night was completed.

Link Crosby led the winners with 17 points on seven fields and three foul conversions. Maines followed with 11. Warner's 15 paced Beichert's.

Goercke and Van Wagenen sparked Ray's Riversiders to their 59 to 40 win over the Skylines. Goercke bucketed 18 markers and Van Wagenen pushed in 12.

Man, 40, Regains Sight After Two Years

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A 40-year-old man who regained his sight after two years said "it was like being born again."

Carl Klein, a naturalist, blind for two years, awoke yesterday morning with "a terrific headache."

"I saw dots flashing before my eyes," he told newsmen. "The dots merged into circles and the circles broke, vision came back to my eyes."

"I was afraid and did not know what to expect. I realized I saw light and went to the window, and gradually street lights took shape."

He had been a student at the Brooklyn Industrial School for the Blind for about two months. A school official said a blood clot affecting an optic nerve might have caused the blindness. He added that Klein has recovered about one-half normal vision.

Klein's first wish was "to go to a park and be able to look at trees, birds and nature."

F.B.I. Report Is Negative on Death Of Baker in South

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP)—A negative report by the F.B.I. laboratory at Washington brought a halt today to the investigation of millionaire Greenville Baker's mysterious death.

"It still leaves us with nothing to hold anybody on," said Sheriff Frank Stoutamire in discussing the F.B.I. tests of evidence in the pre-dawn roadside death Monday of the 27-year-old sportsman.

The veteran officer added that he still believed Baker was killed accidentally when his jeep wrecked on a dirt road leading from his mother's luxurious plantation home near here.

"There is no evidence of any criminal liability," Stoutamire said. And State Attorney William D. Hopkins added: "We've done all we can do at this time."

With Baker when he died, a woman, Thelma Griffin, 21-year-old divorcee and tavern waitress. She had met Baker for the first time the night before he died and had joined him and two companions in a mild drinking party.

China Is Topic At Home Bureau

Woodstock, Jan. 19—"Life in China" during her residence there from 1920 to 1923 was described by Mrs. Harry Kutzschbach of Bearsview at the regular meeting of the Home Bureau unit Tuesday afternoon at the Legion Club House. In conjunction with her talk, Mrs. Kutzschbach displayed interesting tapestries and other articles she had acquired while in that country.

About customs very different from those in America, the speaker told her fellow members "I was quite disconcerted when asked to remove my shoes as I was about to enter a dining room in Yokohama." She then described the scene and told of "sitting on the floor while dining." This episode occurred during her voyage from San Francisco to Shanghai where she was travelling to meet her husband to be, who was engaged in business there. She spoke of the fact that only men appeared on the stage and described the time a woman put in her appearance and was stoned. It was learned, too, that during intermission theatre patrons took advantage of various services which ranged from having a manicure to eating supper. The cook houses set up for the poor in the city, strides made in sanitary condition, general health, etc., were also described by the speaker.

When the members entered the dining room following the meeting, they had a further surprise in that the hostesses, Mrs. Ida Riseley and Mrs. Elizabeth Clough, wore beautiful mandarin, a hand-embroidered Chinese cloth was used on the refreshment table and a centerpiece of geraniums, known in China as the "flower of happiness."

The first fabric bag lesson to be sponsored by the Home Bureau was scheduled to be held today at 2 p. m. with leaders Helen Buttrick and Daisy Montgomery in charge. On January 26, the first meeting for the study of electrical and plumbing repairs will be held with Hermine Kutzschbach and Nora Holdridge as leaders.

Present at Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Margaret Helen Buttrick, president; Mrs. Victoria Lasher, John Nichols, Frank Bradley, Ida Riseley, Philip de la Montagne, Louis Kreyer, Pearl Shultz, John Smith, Elizabeth Clough, John Peacock, Fennell Frankling, Joseph Holdridge, Marcus Kline, Irwin Ait, Martin Comeau, Albert Montgomery, Effie Happy, George Neher, Charles Duane, Harry Kutzschbach, Rose Braden, Joseph Wagner, Bessie Stowell, and the Misses Neva Shults, Edna Thurber and Ann Charlton.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Defender Lays Off To Set This Hand

BY WILLIAM McKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

Today's hand from Columbus,

O., was played by John Potts,

one of the top salesmen for Swift and Company. He has done a great deal for bridge in Columbus.

As a hobby, he started the Clintonville Bridge Club about nine years ago. Today it has its own club rooms. On Wednesday afternoon the ladies hold a special game there, and on Friday nights

the club runs a duplicate in which there are twenty or more tables in play.

Mr. Potts does not claim to be an expert player, but he does love to see people enjoy bridge. However, in today's lesson hand, which he defended, he made a play which, although not difficult, is often missed by good players.

The opponents, of course, got into the wrong contract. The correct spot was four spades. When North bid two spades, South was entirely wrong in going to two no trump. He could have bid four spades, but certainly should have bid three, and North would have taken him to four. But this is a lesson in defense at no trump.

West opened the ten of clubs.

Many East players would have made the mistake of winning this trick with the king, but not Mr.

Potts. He played the nine of clubs, letting the declarer win the trick with the queen. South made a brave effort. He led the jack of hearts, but West covered with the Telephone Co. Has Biggest Year

The New York Telephone Company had the busiest year in its history during 1948, according to Carl Whitmore, president, in a year-end report.

Reaching a record peak in its postwar expansion and improvement program to meet the public's needs, the company added 491,000 telephones—nearly a half million of them—during the year. This was about 76,000 more than in 1947, the previous record year, and brought the company-wide system's total to 4,511,000 telephones at the close of the year. More than a fourth of the company's telephones have been added in the period since V-J Day.

"Moving ahead rapidly in our efforts to meet the demand for telephones since the war," Whitmore said, "we have thus taken care of much of the backlog of demand. But, as new applications for service continue to come in, there is still much to be done. At the end of 1948 we had 182,000 persons waiting for telephones compared with 296,000 at the end of 1947, and 435,000 at the close of 1946. Of the orders held over from 1947, however, 90 per cent were cleared during 1948. We are also making progress in reducing the accumulated requests from subscribers for better grades of service."

Calls originating from the company's telephones in 1948 averaged 21,500,000 daily, an all-time high, nearly 10 per cent above the 1947 level.

58 New Central Offices
Fifty-eight new central offices—also a record number—were installed by the company in 1948, bringing the company's total to 733 by the year's end, Whitmore stated. In the state-wide territory additions were made to 99 central offices serving larger communities and to 234 in smaller centers and rural localities.

Another part of the company's year of greatest construction was the installation of 1,800,000 miles of wire in cables—half again as much as in 1947. "This mammoth addition to the wire facilities," said Mr. Whitmore, "not only provides necessary connecting links for new telephones and growth in exchanges, but aids in handling the growing volume of calls and in steadily improving the quality of the service."

Growth and improved service in 1948 resulted from a construction program in which the company invested $172,000,000, the largest amount in its history. "This is about $7,000,000 above the corresponding figure for 1947, and more than double that of 1946," commented Mr. Whitmore. The company added nearly 7,000 employees in 1948, bringing the total personnel to about 72,000.

Regarding the outlook for 1949, Mr. Whitmore said: "Further progress is the keynote. We plan to continue enlarging facilities to meet the sustained demand for telephones in prospect. We will also continue improving techniques and modernization of our service."

"To keep up with the growing needs of communities and individuals, we are expanding the areas in which our subscribers can call on a toll-free basis. We hope to make further progress in this extension of the service. Our company, along with other Bell System companies, made rapid strides in 1948 in extending the operator dialing of long distance calls, which greatly speeds up their handling. By this method the operators can put through calls to distant telephones directly without the aid of other operators en route. Further expansion of facilities for this purpose will make it possible for a greater proportion of the out-of-town calls to get the faster service in the year ahead.

"In these and many other ways," Whitmore added, "we aim to provide a service which is constantly improving in speed, accuracy and dependability."

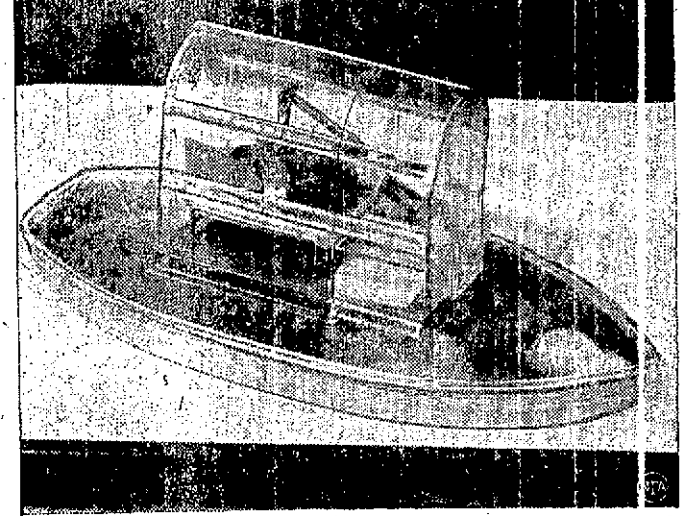

Coldest Weather
Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—The winter season's coldest weather numbed the northern plains and most of the midwest today. A sub-zero belt extended from Montana into Illinois. The mercury plunged to 33 below in Pembina, N. D., and across the cold front eastward into Illinois. Rockford reported a reading of 21 below.

Couple to Marry
New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Henry G. Fownes, 53, millionaire New York industrialist, and Mrs. Edith C. Forrest, 36, of Rye, will be married January 28, it was announced today. The couple was rescued by coast guardsmen last November 28 after Fownes' 73-foot yacht exploded and burned four miles off Atlantic City.

Horticulture Talks New Serum Made

in the next two days. This is a chance for complete grower-statement of their problems and what they think of the programs developed to answer them.

THURSDAY MORNING will be given over to fruit growing problems particularly how the Pacific Coast grows apples; the importance of organic matter and animal manure in modern orchard management; and the getting back and keeping of flavor and quality, a Forum conducted by Dr. A. J. Heinicke of Geneva. Prof. M. B. Hoffman of Ithaca will tell of his trip to the Pacific Coast.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON will be given over to a short business session; improvements in fruit farm machinery by L. J. Brann. This will point out the importance of mist spraying and the new machinery which is applying it. There is great interest in this problem in the Hudson Valley. T. N. Hurd will discuss the proposed Social Security Program for farmers and fruit growers; and John Hall, Lockport, will talk on the Prospective Labor Programs including a discussion on the use of younger workers.

THURSDAY EVENING, banquet takes place with an outstanding speaker, George A. Bowles from Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, talking on Public Relations. The winners of the 4-H Club Apple Pie Baking Contest which will take place at the meeting will be announced. There are some 12 contestants from the valley.

FRIDAY MORNING the "bug" men will take over. The two most important bugs in the valley—Red Banded Leaf Roller and Two-Spotted Mite will be thoroughly discussed and programs for their control will be outlined by Professors Chapman, Glass, Dean, Palm and E. H. Smith. J. Wessel Ten Broeck of Hudson will discuss his successful program in the control of Leaf Roller.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON small fruits questions will be discussed by an outstanding slate of specialists from Geneva. Another session on cold storage operation and construction will be held at the same time. Peach growers' problems will be handled, following the discussion on small fruits, by E. H. Smith and Don Hamilton.

4-H CLUBS will conduct an Apple Snack both in the Gun Room of the Armory. Future Farmers will have a disease and pest identification contest.

Some special new features this year will include a McIntosh Flavor Contest which will be judged by John Lyman and other top-flight McIntosh growers and marketers in the area. This flavor contest is designed to bring out the outstanding qualities of the McIntosh apple by review of the methods used in growing the apples, pointing out the importance of conservative programs of fertilization.

Lawyer to Call Federal Judges as Defense Witnesses

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A defense lawyer in the trial of 11 American Communist leaders today said he would call as witnesses all federal judges in this district to try to support his attack on the jury system here.

George Crockett, Detroit negro attorney, said Judge Harold R. Medina, presiding at the trial, would be included in the call. Medina immediately asked the lawyer to present a memorandum of law to support his right to ask a presiding judge to testify.

The defense has a motion before the court assailing the New York method of picking federal grand juries and trial juries as un-democratic.

The 11 Communist officials, all members of the American party's national committee, are charged with seeking the forcible overthrow of the U. S. government. Crockett today renewed his argument that 350,000 negroes in the southern district of New York had been excluded in selection of juries.

In his remarks the negro attorney apologized for an "emotional outburst of yesterday" in which he sobbed while making a similar complaint about alleged exclusion of negroes.

"You certainly wept and wept profusely," said Judge Medina. "I make no objection to it but it is generally better for counsel to refrain from weeping in the courtroom."

"Thank you, Your Honor," said Crockett. "I appreciate your permission to weep."

In mediation, of course," the judge cautioned.

As in the three previous days of the trial, Medina punctuated the long statements of the defense attorneys today with such remarks as "I wish you'd get down to it" and "go ahead and call your witnesses and start proving it."

Among the jurists the defense plans to call are Judge John C. Knox, senior federal judge in this district.

Medina, at the opening of today's session, continued to reserve decision on a prosecution motion to throw out one part of the defense jury attack.

Rockets making excursions 50 miles above the earth's surface to gather weather data, will be common in the near future.
